Spain's Ruler Wedded To The English Princess Ena In Madrid This Morn- ing With Pomp and Ceremony.

ROYALTY SEES CEREMONY PERFORMED

Wonderful Fetes And Arrangements Make The Scene A Most Impressive One---Was Witnessed By The Entire Populace.

The Bride.
Princess Victoria Eugenia of Battenberg, second child of the late Prince Henry and of Princess Henry of Battenberg, was born October 24, 1887. Her mother, Princess Henry, is H. R. H. Prince of Battenberg, sister of King Edward, who married Henry Maurice of Battenberg, a favorite of Queen Victoria. Prince Henry died in 1896 from a fever contracted while serving in the Ashantee campaign. Princess Ena is fair, blue-eyed and has a quantity of rich, wavy hair. She is the god-daughter of Empress Eugenie, and is said to be her heiress.

The Bridegroom.
King Alfonso XIII. of Spain, was born May 17, 1886. On the 17th of May, 1902, his minority ended, and he assumed the throne, his mother, Maria Christina, resigning the regency. Of his two sisters only one is living, Maria Teresa, who was born in 1892. The King received a liberal education and speaks English fluently. He is a General in the British army, is a Knight of the Garter and has numerous other European honors.

Madrid, May 21.—Alfonso XIII. King of Spain, and Princess Ena of Battenberg today were married with all the pomp and ceremony prescribed by the Roman Catholic church and Spanish etiquette. The spectacular part of the wedding, consisting of the royal procession to and from the church, was witnessed by the largest assemblage of people that ever crowded into the streets of the capital.

Before 7 o'clock this morning the populace was largely assembling in the public squares and along the leading thoroughfares in order to secure places along the route of the royal wedding procession. The whole front of the route was black with people. From the windows of buildings could be seen thousands of faces eager to greet the King and his bride. The large majority of the stores and shops were closed, and in the windows were prominently displayed colored portraits of the King and Princess Ena.

The early morning witnessed an interesting and pretty Spanish custom. In strict incognito Princess Ena, accompanied only by her mother, left the Pardo palace for Madrid. At the city gate the bride-to-be was met by a lone horseman. This was the youthful King, who galloped in front of the coach until the senate house was reached. Here Alfonso left the bride, who entered the senate house to don her bridal attire.

The bride's party joined the bridegroom's cortege on the Plaza Oriente. At 10 o'clock, in the distance, was suddenly heard the grand swelling strains of the national anthem and all along the route the multitudes uncovered in anticipation of the approach of the bridal party.

The Royal Procession.
The royal procession was a spectacle of medieval magnificence. Eight grooms, on horseback, led the march. They were followed by four buglers and cymbal players from the royal stables, whose horses were led by grooms on foot; four mace-bearers, on horses with Oriental trappings, led by hand; riding horses of the King and future Queen, ready saddled, led by grooms; and six other royal horses, covered with handsome velvet cloths of red, blue, green and yellow, embroidered with armorial bearings in gold and silver. Then came twelve of the principal outriders, who directly preceded in a line of quaint historical coaches, twenty-one in number, emblazoned with armorial bearings and embellished with massive gilt ornamentation. The coachmen and footmen wore brilliant Louis XVI. liveries, and the trappings of the horses were of the most gorgeous description. The first vehicle, bronze colored, drawn by four black horses, was occupied by four masters-at-arms. After it came the so-called "Paris" coach with six horses having white trappings and manes plaited with red worsted, occupied by the Court Chamberlains, and twelve state chariots, whose horses were adorned with plumes of varied hues, belonging to the Grandees of Spain. In them were seated palace functionaries of high rank. The next carriage, ornamented with silver gilt, while around its panels were a series of paintings by old masters, having six horses attached to it, was occupied by the Queen Dowager of Spain, Princess Henry of Battenberg and the Infanta Eulalia. Other carriages followed with other members of the two families.

be proud. All Spain and many foreigners were in the throng, while the brilliancy of the decorations made it seem like driving under a continuous canopy of garlands, banners and arches. Red and yellow, of course, predominated in the wildness of bunting, but great masses of roses and other blossoms of many varieties gave a delightful picturesqueness to the combined effect.

Military bands were stationed at various points along the route, and they each struck up the national anthem as the cortege appeared. The separated the foregoing carriages from a very pretty tortoise-shell coach, in which was seated the bride and her party. The entire body of this vehicle was veneered a dark, tortoise-shell color, except for a border of paintings illustrating the history of Solomon. It was drawn by six chestnut horses. The tortoise-shell carriage was followed by a mahogany coach, called the "Coach of Respect," which was not occupied. This vehicle always directly precedes the royal chariot, to meet an emergency, or in case of a breakdown.

A detachment of the Royal Body Guard rode in front of the massively gilded chariot termed the "Royal Crown," occupied by the King. This coach had gilt allegorical figures standing out in relief from the panels, and its roof was surmounted by a heavily gilded crown. The gold-plated moulded lamps of this carriage were especially striking, being inset with imitation jewels. The hammer cloth, a wonderful piece of embroidery work, is valued at many thousands of dollars. The coach was drawn by eight fine speckled grays, in dark red harness having heavily ornate ornamentation. Immense white ostrich plumes waved from the heads of these horses.

Other carriages were in line and were occupied by the royal wedding guests. The officers of the King's Military Household and several squadrons of the Royal Body Guard closed the parade.

Greeted by Loyal Subjects.
The route of the procession was through such thunders of applause and enthusiasm as constituted a greeting of which any monarch might national anthem was thus sounded in the ears of the royal party along the entire route.

Meantime all the audience for the wedding except the bridal party had assembled in the Church of St. Gerónimo. This great old building, of severe exterior, had been made most imposing within. Special stands had been erected for the accommodation of the invited guests, the chance and the navy being reserved for the royal family, princes and members of the court. The scene when the wedding guests assembled was most magnificent. There was an acre of many colored uniforms and beautiful gowns with flashing jewels and glittering orders for the royal personages and nobility.

Conspicuous among the foreign representatives were the Prince of Wales, Prince Albert of Prussia, the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria, the Duke of Flanders, the Crown Prince Gustave of Sweden, the Crown Prince Constantine of Greece, General Dubois, representing the French Republic, and representatives of China, Denmark, Turkey, Morocco and other powers.

Frederick M. Whitbridge, the United States special envoy, in plain evening dress, occupied first place among the glittering uniformed envoys, and was consequently the most striking figure in the whole gathering, as he stood beside the British Ambassador, whose scarlet uniform made a striking foil for the simple attire of the American representative. There was a numerous array of Spanish

ANARCHISTS NEARLY KILL KING AND QUEEN

(By Associated Press.)

London, May 21.—In a dispatch just received from Madrid by the News agency it is reported that a bomb was thrown at King Alfonso and Queen Victoria this afternoon, but that both escaped unhurt. No particulars were given. Last evening the Evening Standard published a story that forecasted this event. It said that it had been discovered that fifty anarchists of England, France and Spain were on their way to Madrid to kill the King as he came from the church. The report also said that the police had secured evidence the plot had been hatched in England and were taking precautions to put an end to all danger and protect the King. The dispatch adds an equestrian, a child and two horses were killed by the explosion. A fourteen-year-old boy was arrested. It is stated the King and Queen behaved with the greatest calm. After the delay caused by the confusion they proceeded to the palace. The Reuter Telegram company also has a dispatch confirming the above. A Madrid dispatch says a bomb was thrown at the King and Queen in the Calle Mayor this afternoon as their majesties were returning after the marriage ceremony. According to details available it appears the bomb was thrown by a boy, who was promptly arrested. Another version of the affair says the real perpetrator of the outrage escaped. An equestrian and two horses were killed. Another report says several persons were killed.

LATE REPORT

Madrid, May 21, 4 p. m.—The bomb was not thrown at the King and Queen of Spain, but at the carriage containing Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, who escaped unhurt, although many soldiers, guards and horses were killed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 21.—At his own request Brig. Gen. James A. Buchanan, in command of the Visayas, Philippine Islands, was placed on the retired list today. Gen. During the Spanish-American war he served in Porto Rico, of which country for a time he was military commander. Gen. Buchanan served on the plains during the Indian wars and was one of the officers detailed to prepare the war records. It is reported that the President has decided to fill the vacancy in the rank of brigadier general by promoting Capt. Ward B. Pershing, 10th Cavalry, for his conspicuous services in the Philippines.

IS JOHN D. OFF FOR FIRST OCEAN TRIP?

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, May 21.—Prior to the sailing of the Deutschland for Hamburg today it was reported that John D. Rockefeller and members of his family were booked among the passengers, but all efforts to ascertain whether the Standard Oil magnate was really among the passengers proved futile. Some time since it was stated that Mr. Rockefeller had decided to go to Europe to see his daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Strong, who was said to be dangerously ill at Cannes. If Mr. Rockefeller is really aboard the big liner he is enjoying (?) his first experience of the kind, for despite his vast wealth he never yet has been abroad.

FATHER OF LAND LEAGUE IS DEAD

GREAT IRISH LEADER, MICHAEL DAVITT, PASSES AWAY.

VERY REMARKABLE STORY

His Rise in the Politics of Great Britain to That of National Importance.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Dublin, May 21.—Michael Davitt, the great Irish leader, passed away at midnight, the end coming after a long illness. All night the patient had been sinking and when his death was announced the mourners were prepared. Mr. Davitt died peacefully and painlessly in the presence of his oldest son, Michael, and his two daughters, who had devotedly attended him through his illness, and of many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon. Shortly before his death Father Hatton had been with him.

Michael Davitt was one of the most noted of Irish nationalist leaders. He rose from the humblest of origins to a position in the politics of Great Britain that ranked beside that of the greatest of those keen patriots that Ireland has sent to represent her in the houses of parliament. His parents were of the poorer class of west of Ireland peasantry, and when he was five years old the family was evicted from its small holding. The bitterness of such childhood as this sank into the soul of the future statesman, and not improbably acted as the spur which sped him up the heights of his ambitions, and which made him one of the foremost men of his country.

His boyhood and youth was spent in unpleasant surroundings. The family had removed to Lancashire, and young Davitt went to work in a cotton mill, where he lost his right arm in an accident. Three years of study in a country town school was all the education he received. In 1866 he joined the Irish revolution that had been initiated by James Stephens. Four years thereafter he was tried for treason-felony and was sentenced to fifteen years in Dartmoor prison, one half of which he served. When he came out as a ticket-of-leave man Dublin gave him a public reception. His public career dated from that time. He entered the land agitation, in which he found Parnell already engaged, and in 1870 he started this movement in his own county of Mayo. In 1880 he assisted in the organization of the land league and became its leading spirit. He visited America, organized the branch leagues there, and crossed the continent from coast to coast energetic and untiring everywhere.

In 1881 Mr. Davitt was reimprisoned on his ticket-of-leave and served fifteen months incarceration, but was not required to labor. In 1882 he revisited America, revived the dropping branches of the league he had founded, and returned to Ireland, where he was soon again arrested. This time he served four months in prison. It was while he was in Portland prison that Mr. Davitt was elected a member of parliament for Meath, but he was not permitted to take his seat. In 1885 he refused to stand for several Irish constituencies on the ground of his objection to taking the oath of allegiance. And it was not until 1891 that he could be induced to forego his prejudices in this regard. At that time he stood for Waterford, but was not elected. In the very next year, however, he was a successful candidate for the seat representing North Meath, but was again disqualified. He was next elected for North Cork, but resigned. In 1895 he was elected for South Mayo.

Mr. Davitt always exhibited a lofty patriotism and a disinclination thoroughly to accept the finality of the English conquest in Ireland. His views on the land question were more in harmony with those of the late Henry George than with those of the late Mr. Parnell. He wrote freely for numerous publications. He was an able speaker, a quick debater, and often replied to what he considered sophistry by some Diogenian act such as that of arising and walking out, as he walked out of parliament as a protest against Great Britain's war on the Boers. Mr. Davitt frequently visited the United States and enjoyed a wide acquaintance among public men in America. His wife, who survives him, was a resident of Oakland, Cal.

MURDERER TUCKER IS TO BE TRANSFERRED

Slayer of Mabel Page May Still Have Death Sentence Commuted to Life Imprisonment.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Mass., May 21.—Sometime late tonight or early tomorrow morning Charles L. Tucker will be transferred to the Charlestown state prison from the East Cambridge jail, where he has been confined for the past two years under the charge of murdering Miss Mabel Page at Weston in March, 1904. The transfer will be made regardless of any possible commutation of the sentence on the part of Governor Guild. In the event of the sentence being commuted to life imprisonment Tucker will serve his time in the state prison. If the governor declines to interfere in the case the young man will be electrocuted in the prison during the week of June 10. Hanging was stopped in Massachusetts and electrocution substituted for capital crimes in 1898. Up to the present time four men have paid the penalty of their crimes in the electric chair.

"He who thinks he can find in himself the means of doing without others is much mistaken; but he who thinks that others cannot do without him is still more mistaken." A merchant rarely makes the first mistake—never if he is sane; but when he concludes to curtail his advertising it is a sign that he is falling into the second.

LABOR CONDITIONS IN EUROPE.

Lord Avebury, a member of the House of Lords, said, in a speech before the House, a few days ago:

"The unrest in Europe, the spread of socialism and the ominous rise of anarchism are warnings to the governments and the ruling classes that the condition of the working classes in Europe is becoming intolerable, and that if a revolution is to be avoided some steps must be taken to increase wages, reduce the hours of labor, and lower the prices of the necessities of life. Europe is a great military camp. We have no peace; only an armistice, with unlimited expenditures. The result is that instead of accumulating capital for our children we are piling up for them debt and overwhelming responsibilities."

This is a warning to England, from a source which the nation cannot afford to ignore. Lord Avebury belongs to the aristocracy and his utterances are not prompted by personal grievance, or discontent. He views the situation from the standpoint of a statesman and expresses these views to his colleagues in the House.

England has long prided herself on being a manufacturing nation. The argument was freely used that America, with her great agricultural resources, should be content to furnish the world's food supply and leave to the mother country the task of supplying the manufactured products.

But under the stimulus of protection the new country has pressed to the front until conditions prevailing in the industries of Great Britain today are largely due to American competition.

The labor world, in America today, is a prosperous world, and whatever exists in the way of discontent is not due to lack of work at good wages, but to more prosperity than can be readily assimilated.

Every factory in the land is running to its full capacity and many lines have orders booked for months ahead. All the country needs is to be let alone, and it will be a relief to everybody when congress adjourns.

Lord Avebury says that England, instead of accumulating capital for the next generation, is piling up debt and responsibility. The reverse is true in this country. Accumulation, not of debt, but of property, is the order of the day, and the outlook was never more encouraging. It is worth while to be an American in this year of our Lord nineteen hundred and six.

THE MAYOR IS RIGHT.

The action of Mayor Hutchinson in vetoing the vote of the council, which sought to abolish the office of assistant street commissioner, will be heartily endorsed by a large majority of the taxpayers.

Janesville has long enjoyed the reputation of being an easy victim of damage suits, on account of defective streets and sidewalks. It is doubtless true that the city is in no worse condition, as regards its streets and walks, than many other inland cities and conditions in this respect are certainly much better than exist in many of the larger cities, but it seems to have been a prolific field and the disposition has long prevailed to work it to the limit.

The cost of maintaining the office under discussion is trifling when compared to the saving which is bound to result. The number of accidents prevented may never be known, but it is safe to say that good streets and walks contribute to safety in large degree.

There is a small class of property owners in all cities who regard permanent public improvements as a species of extravagance, which should not be countenanced. The new sidewalk ordinance which prohibits the use of anything but cement, in the construction of walks, is regarded by this class of people as a hardship, and yet the fact remains that for length of service and safety the cement walk is the most economical in existence.

The sewerage system has also been the subject of much criticism, but the only mistake made by the city is that the system was not adopted and put in force 25 years ago.

Sidewalks, streets and sewers are the penalties which men pay for living in town. They contribute in a measure to the value of personal property but in larger degree to public welfare, and when the latter interests are properly conserved, all property shares in the benefits.

The man who prefers a cow path to a sidewalk, and a dirt road to a macadam street, has not yet become acclimated to community life, and his place is in the country where nature is largely undisturbed.

The poorest economy is expressed in the single word "neglect." It isn't so much what the city does as what it fails to do at the proper time.

The best way to prevent damage suits is to remove the cause and this sentiment is what prompted the mayor to veto the measure on sidewalk inspection at the last meeting of the council.

FOR SENATOR LA FOLLETTE.

"To the Editor of The Press: 'Sir—I want to throw up my cap for the sentiments expressed by L. H. Washburn in today's Press, particularly his suggestion 'Let The Press and its voting readers be the 'Original La Follette Men!' You have shown us, Mr. Editor, with remarkable fairness, the defects of Mr. Roosevelt, which render it necessary to nominate a stronger man to oppose Bryan two years hence. And the strongest of these is Bob La Follette. Lead the fight for him, Mr. Editor, and we will follow you to the White House. 'La Follette has none of Roosevelt's weaknesses, has all his virtues and some mighty ones of his own besides, such as a great intellect, marvelous eloquence, a heart that beats for the ordinary people, and an iron will that will not be swayed from their service by any considerations of friendship or expediency.'"

"Yours for 'Fighting Bob,'
"May 24. E. R. PERRY."

The New York Press, which is an ardent admirer of Senator La Follette, published the above communication in its issue of May 26. With the Milwaukee Journal booming the Wisconsin senator for the democratic nomination, and The Press engaged in the same work for the republican ticket, it will be interesting to watch the antics of the much-selected candidate.

The ambition of the great reformer is to revolutionize the republican party and establish a middle of the road party, which shall include the disgruntled element in all parties. This is a lofty ambition and may possibly be realized, but the time is a little short for the 1908 campaign.

It reforms would only stay reformed, the outlook would be more encouraging, but there are so many ambitious leaders that the structure is always in danger while in process of construction. Wisconsin is having a little experience of this kind just at present, and the burning question appears to be, "was the $110,000 expended in the last campaign wisely expended?"

STRIPED PEST MADE
APPEARANCE AGAIN

Gardeners Complaining of Variety of Bug That Does Damage to Cucumber Vines.

Gardeners are complaining of the attack being made on their cucumber vines this season by what they call a "striped" bug. They declare that the insect, while known in the past, has made its presence unusually manifest this year. It is said to be a very destructive bug when it begins its ravaging and various remedies have been looked up by the gardeners to get rid of the pest.

One man yesterday stated he had used paris green effectively. He states that, upon applying it to the vines, the bugs were either dispersed or killed. He says that a moderate use of the poison causes no ill results to the vines, although he adds that watchfulness should be used in order to prevent children, chickens or any pets from getting hold of the composition.

Still another man who is raising a garden has found the small chicken a useful bug-killer. He states the chickens, as raiders of the detested bug, have anything else beaten to pieces, and asserts no damage is done the vines by the members of the poultry. He finds the chicken a much stronger friend of the human race than the dog is. In fact, he finds but few redeeming features in the canine.

The pestiferous bug that has made its debut so unwelcomely is also very fond of squash and other vines and those who have gardens are endeavoring earnestly to exterminate them before the arrival of later garden truck.

PIANOS FROM FACTORY TO YOU DIRECT!

The Expense of Store and Business Clipped From the Price to You—Pianos of High Reputation, Every One Guaranteed.

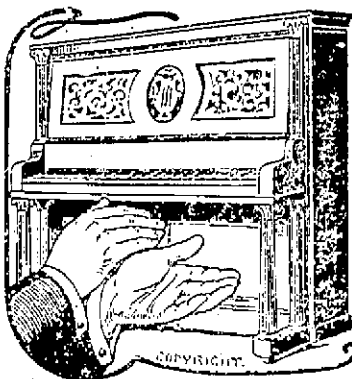

Perhaps you are in need of a fine Piano. If so, talk to H. F. NOTT, the reliable piano dealer. I am out of the store but not out of the piano business, and can furnish you a piano direct from the factory at a much less price than as if I carried a stock. The large expense attached to the handling of business from a store is entirely done away with and the saving is the purchaser's gain.

Just let me know when you are in the market for a Piano and I will do the rest. It is so easy to buy a Piano when you start right. I make a specialty of selling good Pianos—those that stay in tune long and are made as near perfect as it is possible to make them; those that have beautiful tone quality and the best action made in America. This is the kind of a Piano you should buy; then you will be happy as far as the piano trouble goes. I guarantee satisfaction or no sale. The Pianos that I would call your special attention to are as follows:

NEWMAN BROS. PIANO, manufactured in Chicago.

LESTER PIANO, manufactured at Lester, Pa.

HARDMAN PIANO, manufactured at New York, N. Y.

These noted Pianos are all strictly high grade and only the very best materials throughout are used in their construction—which insures durability, also produces an even and superior quality of tone. These Pianos are selected from the many so-called high grade pianos on account of their great durability and beautiful tone. I say it is easy to buy a piano if you start right. A child can buy a good Piano from this list and make no mistake. All of these three different named Pianos are well known in the city and in the state—yes, all over the United States. Of late 24 Lester Upright Pianos and one Parlor Grand were sold and shipped to the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, Mass. This surely speaks well of the Lester. There are more Lester Pianos sold in Philadelphia than all other makes combined. The Lester is made in one grade only and that the highest; lasts a lifetime.

The same can be said of the other Pianos. Send for a Catalogue, ask me to call and talk over the Piano matter with you. Remember this, now and forever, that I sell the best Piano that money can buy. My prices are low. Call up New Phone 775, or send me a postal card asking me to call. Of late I have sold Pianos in Appleton, Fond du Lac, Beloit, Janesville, and am ready to go anywhere in the state.

WAS A GREAT DAY AT GOLF GROUNDS

1906 SEASON AT LINKS OPENED AUSPICIOUSLY YESTERDAY.

HEWITT MADE COURSE IN 39

Captain of University Golf Team Made Fine Showing on Links in Second Trial.

After many days of rain and mist and chill winds from the north, the leaden skies cleared shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon and the annual opening at the Sunnyside Golf Club's grounds which had seemed a fore-doomed failure was turned by sunshine and balmy air into the most auspicious affair of the kind which has been held for many seasons. Before three o'clock an imposing line of automobiles and vehicles had come to anchor alongside the new cement post fence which divides the golf course proper from the roadway leading up from the gate, and nearly two hundred people were getting their clubs in readiness for the mixed foursomes or preparing for the card games in the clubhouse or gazing in rapture at the beautiful panorama spreading to the southward where the cottages and castles of their own city nestling among the hills, the hazy smoke and tall chimneys of Deloit, the stretches of meadow, the groves, the thickets, seemed in perspective to take on an appearance of dreamlike unreality.

Hewitt's Fine Showing Interest in the game, itself, was materially heightened by the presence on the links of Fred Hewitt of Oshkosh, captain of the University of Wisconsin golf team which is competing at the Elmhurst grounds in Chicago today with the Chicago and Michigan university teams in a tournament which is to decide the western intercollegiate championship. Hewitt went over the course with President H. S. McGilla of the State Golf Association in the forenoon in 42. Bogey is 41. In the afternoon he more than duplicated what was considered a remarkable performance for a stranger on local grounds by making the course in 39 strokes. This achievement gave the Janesville players who are entertaining vague hopes of producing a champion this year, a bad scare. William Kyle of Kenosha, who won the championship last year will not be a participant in the state tournament which is to be in progress here June 26-29 owing to the fact that he is to graduate at Harvard, but there are indications that there will be plenty of other skilled players on hand to dispute the cup and laurel crown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Won the mixed foursome events in which eight couples were entered. Their gross score was 55 but their net score, less the handicap of 10, was 45. J. P. Baker and Mrs. Frank Blodgett were second with a gross score of 53, handicap 6, net 49. Chester Morse and Daisy Maclean ranked third—gross, 61; handicap, 10; net, 51. Frank Elfield and Katherine Elfield came next with a gross score of 58; handicap, 6; net, 52. Al Schaller and Elizabeth Schlicker had a gross score of 54; no handicap; net score, 54. Colin Maclean and Belle Maclean made a gross score of 61; had a handicap of 6, leaving a net score of 55. Charles Gage and Mabel Jackman made the course in 63. Their handicap was 8 and net score 55. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wheeler made the course in 67; handicap, 10; net score, 57. Sixteen ladies entered the putting contests. Miss Mabel Jackman carried off the first prize in the putting contest and Mrs. A. J. Harris won the second. Mrs. Charles Weirick won first prize in the military echelon game which was played in the clubhouse.

Supper at 6:30 The house committee, consisting of Mrs. Frank Blodgett, Mrs. W. G. Wheeler, Miss May Valentine, George McKee, and Charles Gage, worked tirelessly to make things pleasant for all the visitors. Through their efforts a new piano, handsome new curtains, and decorations had been installed in the clubhouse and they did everything within their power to aid Chief Wallington in the predicament in which he found himself when, at three o'clock, instead of a score over a hundred instead of a score over a hundred no more supplies could be procured. Despite these unfavorable circumstances the supper passed off very nicely. About eight o'clock the tables were removed from the hall and President M. G. Jeffris made a short address, introducing Wilson Lane, who was to formally present Al Schaller, the winner, with the Wilson Lane cup. The three speeches were brief and effective and at their conclusion the Roy Carter orchestra sounded the opening two-step for a dance which lasted until midnight.

Visitors Present Among the out-of-town guests at the opening were: Mrs. B. H. Fletcher, Miss Gertrude Post, Mrs. Stacy, Mrs. P. J. Tucker, Hiram Jackman, Edward Putnam, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hall, all of Chicago; Mrs. Henry Martin of London, England; Mrs. Horace Dyer of St. Louis; Earl Anderson of Stoughton, Fred Hewitt of Oshkosh, C. S. List of Fond du Lac, and John Bassett of Pittsburgh.

THERE WERE USUAL HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS

Will Conley Thrust Arm Through Glass Door and Artery Was Severed.

Shortly after seven o'clock last evening Will Conley, who was standing in front of a downtown store with a number of companions, slipped as he jokingly struck at one and thrust his left arm through the glass portion of a door. The heavy broken plate fell onto his forearm and cutting through his coat and shirt made a long gash in the member and severed an artery. He was forced to walk three blocks before a doctor could be found and behind him he left a trail of blood. It was necessary to take several stitches to close the wound.

Runaway Accident. W. B. Tallman and Fred Palmer had a lucky escape from injuries in a runaway accident on North High street yesterday afternoon. The horse which belongs to the former became frightened and suddenly starting to run threw the two occupants of the rig out. Tallman hung to the reins and by the aid of Palmer, who quickly regained his feet, stopped the horse. The carriage, which was sloughed against the curb, was badly damaged.

JANESVILLE BOY KILLED ON TRAIN

WILLIAM A. CARROLL WAS KILLED YESTERDAY IN CHICAGO.

SHOT DOWN ON ELEVATED

Remains Will Be Brought Here for Burial, Arriving Tomorrow Afternoon.

William A. Carroll, a former Janesville resident and manager of Swift & Co.'s Rockwell street Market, Chicago, was shot on a South Side elevated train at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and died fifteen minutes later at Provident hospital. Harry Foster, a watchman from St. Louis, doing strike duty for the Robert O. Law company and living at 3523 Indiana avenue, did the shooting. Foster wore a star, carried a revolver and declared himself a policeman from the city hall. He was held to the grand jury, without bail at the coroner's inquest in the afternoon.

Carroll and four companions, all said to have been in a more or less intoxicated condition, boarded the southbound train at Twenty-second street. Accounts differ as to how Foster was jostled by the man he killed. Carroll's companions declare it was accidental, and that Foster, refusing to accept a passing apology, deliberately fired. Joseph A. Jacobs, a train guard, testified at the inquest that Foster did not fire until he had been assaulted and knocked down by Carroll and his companions. Deputy Coroner Andrews advised Foster not to testify.

Preceded by Quarrel. "We had been out automobile riding," said James J. Leahy, 6354 Greenwood avenue. "At Thirty-third street Foster and Carroll had some words, but I did not understand what it was about. Suddenly they started fighting, and Foster, pulling out his revolver, shot once. Then he backed out through the car door. Carroll fell back into my arms."

James J. Riley, 4125 Michigan avenue, also was taken to the police station after the shooting. His story corroborated Leahy's. Walter Hogan, 5250 Prairie avenue, and J. H. Hassne, 2000 Dearborn street, the other companions of Carroll, fled down the elevated steps and escaped after the occurrence.

"Five men got on the train at Twenty-second street," testified Guard Jacobs. "All were intoxicated and one had to be carried aboard. One of them stuck his foot out in the aisle and tripped an old negro who was getting off the train at Twenty-ninth street."

All Attacked Foster. "At Thirty-third street they tried the same tactics with Foster, who flashed his star and said he was an officer. Then Carroll hit him from behind and they all attacked him. They knocked his hat off and knocked him down. When he arose he had his revolver in his hand and fired close to Carroll's body. Then he ran toward the door, where he was captured by policemen when the train stopped."

To Be Buried Here. Mr. Carroll was a son of the late Philip Carroll of this city and lived in Janesville for many years before going to Chicago. His remains will be brought to Janesville for burial, arriving Friday evening at five-forty-five and will be taken immediately to Mt. Olivet cemetery.

FOURTH AVE. BRIDGE CLOSED BY MAYOR

Misplaced Pilings Makes Structure Weak—May Be Condemned by Council.

Mayor Hutchinson this afternoon ordered the Fourth avenue Bridge closed to all traffic owing to the fact two large pilings have become misplaced, tending to weaken the structure and make it dangerous to the public. A special meeting of the Highways committee composed of Aldermen Dean, Sheridan, Merritt, Brockhaus and Connell may be held and condemn the structure. Five hundred dollars was spent in repairing the bridge two years ago and in the opinion of some of the committee a few new pilings are all that is needed now.

HANLY FLAYS GRAFT

Warns People of Danger Attending Political Lethargy.

MUST HEED THE CALL TO ARMS

Criminal Aggressions of Incorporated Capital and Aggregated Wealth Must Be Stayed by Legal Regulations and Wholesome Laws.

Lafayette, Ind., May 31.—In a Memorial day address Gov. Hanly, addressing a large crowd at Purdue university, dealt at length with public grafting. He said:

"The American people are at the beginning of a great revolution. As yet, there is in a literal sense no call to arms. There are no drum beats, no bugle blasts, no serried ranks, no marching columns, no battlefields strewn with the wounded and the dead, but the revolution is upon us and about us as certainly as though all these were present.

"Stupendous social, economic and political changes are involved. Deeply imbedded in the very core and center of this revolution, running like a thread of gold through all its shifting scenes and changing forms, are certain fundamental principles of human right and of human liberty, and unless we in our day, and especially you, in your day, possess a willingness to seek for these and the wisdom to find them, and the patriotism and the courage to proclaim them, to stand by them and save them when found, the call to arms, the drum beats, the bugle blasts, the serried ranks, the marching columns and the battlefields will come to us and to you as certainly as in the past they came to our fathers.

"The criminal aggressions of incorporated and aggregated wealth against the individual must be stayed by legal regulations and wholesome laws courageously enforced, or history will repeat itself in your day as it has in the past. You will no more be exempt than other generations have been. Progress must and will be made.

Human Rights Involved.

"Human rights—the right of the individual citizen—or the rights of the body of the people, are not safe where government is administered by special interests or through the corrupt or demoralizing influence of organized wealth and greed. No despotism can be more absolute than the despotism of money.

"Thrift, wealth and aggregated capital are essential to the prosperity of the people and the development of the country. I wage no war against these or any of these, but I do wage war against the thrift that grows by theft and speculation, against the abuse of wealth, against the corrupt practices of incorporated capital, and the undue and unholy influences it exercises in the administration of government.

"I do not look with pleasure either upon the 'muck' or the 'muck-raker,' but either is better than the 'muck bed.' And as long as the 'muck raker' remains, I hope the 'muck bed' will continue to expose it and to lay it bare, that the people may come to hate it, to despise the greed that feeds it, and to forsake every man whose hands are soiled with its pollution."

ANARCHISTS DESECRATE FLAG

Incident Marks Reception to Berkman by Chicago Reds.

Chicago, May 31.—While a large part of the population of Chicago was paying its respects Wednesday to the national emblem and the men who fought to save it, 500 anarchists gathered at a memorial meeting for the executed anarchists and cheered when a small national flag was snatched from the hand of a child who had wandered into the meeting, torn into bits and thrown on the floor.

The insult to the American flag was the chief incident of the meeting which marked the first Chicago appearance of Berkman. With Emma Goldman, the high priestess of the anarchists, he divided the applause as chief speaker of the day.

FILIPINO STUDENTS TO WORK FOR FARMERS

Boys will Be Given Chance to Become Acquainted with American Customs.

Washington, May 31.—Philippine students who came to this country in 1903 for education at government expense are to have an opportunity to hustle and to make their own living this summer, preparatory to entering upon their fourth and last year of school work next fall.

W. A. Sutherland, of the bureau of insular affairs, who has charge of the young Filipinos, has written them a letter urging that the boys who have been here three years find some employment and work during the summer rather than attend school. It is the desire of the bureau of insular affairs that the students shall have a few months of actual hustling, when they must rely upon themselves and learn American customs and methods better than is possible in the atmosphere of schools and universities.

Most of the students who are in agricultural colleges, and many of those in normal schools, will go to work on farms. The young Filipinos who are studying law will go into law offices, and many others will go into shops and factories. A number of the engineering students are trying to get places in surveying parties sent out by the United States geological survey.

The students are scattered among the leading schools and colleges in all parts of the United States, and it has been urged upon them that they obtain employment near their schools if possible.

Board and room rent will be paid for the boys by the government at the rate usually allowed them, and they will be given two dollars a month for laundry. All the money they earn will be their own, but no further allowance will be sent to the students who find employment.

Danderine

GREW MISS LEWIS' HAIR

AND WE CAN PROVE IT

The Great Danderine Never Fails to Produce the Desired Results

MISS Lewis' hair was very thin and it was less than two feet in length when she began using Danderine. She says her hair and scalp are now fairly teeming with new life and vigor. That's the main secret of this great remedy's success as a hair grower. It enlivens, invigorates and fairly electrifies the hair glands and tissues of the scalp, causing unusual and unheard-of activity on the part of these two most important organs, resulting in a strenuous and continuous growth of the hair.

The following is a reproduction of Miss Lewis' last letter:

January 3, 1905.

Dear Doctor Knowlton:—

You know I told you in my first letter that my hair would not reach much below my shoulders, and that all of it together only made one tiny braid.

I am sending you my photograph, which I had taken at Stevens Bros. It tells the whole story better than I can tell it. Everybody I know is using Danderine, so you see I am doing something to show my appreciation.

Sincerely yours, (Miss) EVA LEWIS.

SCIENCE ANALYSIS

Percentage Alcohol

The Prohibition Theory on Beers

Has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. The great scientists of all Nations after careful analysis declare that beer brewed from pure barley malt and hops contains only about 3 1/4 per cent of alcohol or just enough to mildly stimulate the body and promote healthy digestion. Dr. Bauer, the German analyst (whose fame is international) says "Beer has a number of pleasant and valuable qualities. No other beverage contains such a combination of useful properties. The water of it quenches the thirst, the carbonic acid refreshes, the extracts are nutritious, the alcohol furthers digestion, the mineral salts build up the bones and extracts of hops act as a tonic."

Dr. Bauer's statement here given exactly describes the qualities of

The Brethren

By RIDER HAGGARD,
Author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1903-1904, BY RIDER HAGGARD

"Godwin D'Arcy," he answered. "I have learned to know you as a true servant of the church. It well may be that to such a one as you foresight has been given, that through you those who rule us may be warned and all Christendom saved from great sorrow and disgrace. Come, let us go to the king and tell this story, for he still sits in council yonder."

So they went out together and rode to the royal tent. Here the bishop was admitted, leaving them without. Presently he returned for them.

Already it was near midnight, but still the great pavilion was crowded with barons and chief captains. At the head of the table sat the king. Guy of Lusignan, a weak faced man, clad in splendid armor. On his right was the white haired Count Raymond of Tripoli and on his left the black bearded, frowning master of the Templars, clad in his white mantle, on the left breast of which the red cross was blazoned. Words had been running high, their faces showed it, but just then a silence reigned. The king looked up and, seeing the bishop, asked peevishly:

"What is it now? Oh, I remember; some tale from those tall twin knights. Well, bring them forward."

So the three of them came forward, and at Godwin's prayer the bishop Egbert told of the vision that had come to him not more than an hour ago while he kept watch upon the mountain top. At first one or two of the barons seemed disposed to laugh, but when they looked at Godwin's high and spiritual face their laughter died away. Indeed, as the tale of the rocky hill and the dead who were stretched upon it went on they grew white with fear, and whistled of them all the king.

"Is all this true, Sir Godwin?" he asked when the bishop had finished.

"It is true, my lord king," answered Godwin.

"His word is not enough," broke in the master of the Templars. "Let him swear to it on the holy road, knowing that if he lies it will blast his soul to all eternity."

Now there was an annex to the tent, rudely furnished as a chapel, and at the end of this annex a tall, veiled object. Rufinus, the bishop of Acre, who was clad in the armor of a knight, went to the object, and, drawing the veil, revealed a broken, blackened cross, set around with jewels, that stood about the height of a man above the ground, for all the lower part was gone.

At the sight of it Godwin and every man present there fell upon his knees, for since St. Helena found it, over seven centuries before, this had been accounted the most precious relic in all Christendom—the very wood upon which the Saviour suffered, as, indeed, it may have been.

"Now," broke in the voice of the master of the Templars, "let Sir Godwin D'Arcy swear to the truth of his tale upon this road."

Rising from his knees Godwin advanced to the cross, and, laying his hand upon the wood, said:

"Upon this very road I swear that not more than an hour ago I saw the vision which has been told to the king's highness and to all."

The bishop drew back the covering over the cross, and in silence the council took their seats again about the table. Now the king was very pale and fearful; indeed, a gloom lay upon all of them.

"It would seem," he said, "that here a messenger has been sent to us from heaven. Dare we disobey his message?"

The Grand Templar lifted his rugged, frowning face.

"A messenger from heaven, said you, king? To me he seems more like a messenger from Saladin. Tell us, Sir Godwin, were not you and your brother once the sultan's guests at Damascus, and were you not officers of the sultan's bodyguard?"

Now all looked intently at Godwin, who hesitated a little, foreseeing how his answer would be read, whereon Wulf spoke in his loud voice:

"Aye, we acted as such for awhile and—doubtless you have heard the story—saved Saladin's life when he was attacked by the assassins."

"Oh," said the Templar, with bitter sarcasm, "you saved Saladin's life, did you? I can well believe it. Now, Sir Knights, answer me one more question—"

"Sir Templar, with my tongue or with my sword?" broke in Wulf, but the king held up his hand and bade him be silent.

"A truce to your tavern ruffling, young sir, and answer," went on the Templar. "Or, rather, do you answer, Sir Godwin. Is your cousin, Raymond D'Arcy, a niece of Saladin, and has she been created by him Princess of Basileia, and is she at this moment in his city of Damascus?"

"She is his niece," answered Godwin quietly. "She is the Princess of Basileia, but at this moment she is not in Damascus."

"How do you know that, Sir Godwin?"

"I know it because in the vision of which you have been told I saw her sleeping in a tent in the camp of Saladin."

Now the council began to laugh, but Godwin, with a set, white face, went on:

"Aye, my lord Templar, and near that very blazoned tent I saw scores of the Templars and of the Hospitalliers lying dead. Remember it when the dreadful hour comes."

say, I know you for brave men, for I have heard the tale of your doings among the assassins. There is room for you among my suit—follow me."

"As well him as another," said Godwin. "Let us go where we are led."

So they followed him.

By the time that the army reached Kenna, where once the water was made wine, the July sun was already hot, and the spring was so soon drunk dry that many men could get no water. On they pushed into the desert lands below, which lay between them and Tiberias and were bordered on the left and right by hills. Now clouds of dust were seen moving across the plains and in the heart of them bodies of Saracen horsemen, which continually attacked the vanguard under Count Raymond and as continually retreated before they could be crushed, slaying many with their spears and arrows.

Also these came round behind them and charged the rear guard, where marched the Templars and the light armed troops named Turcopoles and the band of Reginald de Chantillon, with which rode the brethren.

From noon till near sundown the long-limbed lie, broken now into fragments, struggled forward across the rough, stony plain, the burning heat beating upon their armor till the air danced about it as it does before a fire. Toward evening men and horses became exhausted, and the soldiers cried to their captains to lead them to water. But in that place there was no water.

The rear guard fell behind, worn out with constant attacks that must be repelled in the burning heat, so that there was a great gap between it and the king, who marched in the center. Messages reached them to push on, but they could not, and at length camp was pitched in the desert near a place called Mareselela, and upon this camp Raymond and his vanguard were forced back. As Godwin and Wulf rode up they saw him come in, bringing his wounded with him, and heard him pray the king to push on and at all hazards to cut his way through to the lake, where they might drink—aye, and heard the king say that he could not, since the soldiers would march no more that day. Then Raymond wrung his hands in despair and rode back to his men, crying aloud:

"Alas! Alas! O Lord God, alas! We are dead, and thy kingdom is lost!"

That night none slept, for all were athirst, and who can sleep with a burning throat? Now also Godwin and Wulf were no longer laughed at because of the water skins they carried on their horses. Rather did great hopes come to them and almost on their knees came for the boon of a single cup. Having watered their horses sparingly from a bowl, they gave what they could till at length only two skins remained, and one of these was spilled by a thief, who crept up and snatched it with his knife that he might drink while the water ran to waste. After this the brethren drew their swords and watched, swearing that they would kill any man who so much as touched the skin which was left.

All that long night through, there arose a confused clamor from the camp, of which the burden seemed to be, "Water! Give us water!" while from without came the shouts of the Saracens calling upon Allah. Here, too, the hot ground was covered with scrub dried to tinder by the summer drought, and to this the Saracens set fire so that the smoke rolled down on the Christian host and choked them, and the place became a hell.

FRANCIS PROVED A PRETTY GOOD LAWYER

Sharply But Decisively Cross-Examined Witness, Charging Him With Horse-Stealing.

William Francis, who was arrested here some days ago charged with the theft of a horse, wagon, and harness belonging to Rotstein Bros., the junk dealers, during the month of April, 1905, appeared in municipal court for his hearing this afternoon. Harry Rotstein, the only witness for the prosecution, testified that Francis was allowed to take a rig belonging to his firm to collect some junk with and that he disappeared and neither the horse and vehicle nor Francis had been seen by him up to the time when he laid eyes on Francis last Friday. Francis had no lawyer, but he closely cross-examined Mr. Rotstein and when he went on the witness stand, himself, told a well-connected story about leaving the rig in front of a saloon in Beloit and skipping out to Freeport while in a state of intoxication with some former acquaintances he had met in the Line City. There was not enough evidence on either side to bind the prisoner over or dismiss him and the case was adjourned until Monday next.

SPAETH IS SAID TO HAVE A SENSATION

Will Produce Evidence to Show That He Is Victim of a Conspiracy—Never Indicted.

In the Billboard appears the following of interest in Janesville:

"W. T. Spaeth, the well-known circus treasurer, who was arrested recently while in charge of the ticket wagon with the Hagenbach show, alleges that there is a plot back of his arrest. It has developed that Mr. Spaeth was not indicted by the grand jury at Tarboro, N. C., but that his arrest followed the issuance of a warrant sworn to by a police officer of that city. Frank H. Pender, a Tarboro justice of the peace, issued the affidavit. Spaeth's attorney's announced that they have some very sensational evidence to uncover in support of their claim that their client's arrest was affected through the machinations of a conspiracy. No statement has been given out as to whether these alleged machinations are the result of personal or professional malignance."
